

Keywords: Middle East, Arabic, project/initiative, media content, conflict, religion & belief, ethnicity

MDI's 'Finding common ground in Israel - Jewish and Arab journalism students working together' project culminated with the students producing a 24-page, bi-lingual coexistence newspaper supplement, 100,000 copies of which were then circulated into their northern Israeli community as an insert in local Arabic-language and Hebrew-language newspapers.

The students and their newspaper received a 'Certificate of Excellence' commending their work, at the 10th British Diversity Awards, 2004.

 [Jewish and Arab journalism students working together \[AR\].pdf](#)